Gary Stalder Taxidermy

Taxidermy, we understand that you are entrusting us with a once-in-a-lifetime trophy. You can count on us to be there for you, whether it's your first buck or the bull elk you've been after for years. We can handle just about anything you may need, from a standard antler mount to a full size diorama, and everything in between.

As an avid hunter myself, I became interested in the art of taxidermy when I began bowhunting in the early '80s. I studied and practiced under the guidance of my father, Ralph Stalder, for years helping produce competition quality mounts for friends, family, and loyal customers in his established studio in the Midwest. The time together in the shop allowed us to lengthen the seasons' experiences and master the reproduction of nature's beauty.

At Gary Stalder we have always maintained a small, personal business. Each mount receives 100% of our attention and effort. There are no assembly lines or mass production and only the best quality materials and components are used.

After over 25 years, the lessons learned are apparent in what we consider true artistic productions. We still spend Holidays together, whether in his shop in Iowa or here in Colorado, helping each other with our own mounts and keeping open criticism to continually improve our processes and final works of art.

When the time comes, we hope you'll consider Gary Stalder Taxidermy to make that treasured moment last a lifetime. Please allow us to deliver you a Custom Creation.
